APPLICATIONS OPEN FOR YOUTH LED PROJECTS

Organisations looking to kick-start projects promoting youth engagement and inclusion can now apply for a $1.5 million NSW Government fund.

Member for Hawkesbury today urged non-government organisations and local Councils in the region to apply for the Youth Opportunities Fund.

“Youth Opportunities is a wonderful programme that provides a platform for young people in our state to engage with the community, socialise with others and gain new skills,” Ms Preston said.

“The programme supports young people from all walks of life to thrive, including those from regional areas, Aboriginal and culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds, disadvantaged youth and people with a disability,” said the Member for Hawkesbury.

One-off grants of between $10,000 and $50,000 are available for new youth-driven projects that use strategies to support participation and community engagement.

Since the programme was established in 2012, more than $10 million has been invested in projects across the state.

“Young people involved in the programme get the chance to participate in a diverse range of activities and develop a range of skills, including management skills, hospitality skills, event planning and artistic development,” Ms Preston said.

Applications for grants under this year’s programme close on 16 July 2019.
